“Self” References: Chapter 6-10

I. Chapter 6.................................................................................................................................. 2
II. Chapter 7.................................................................................................................................. 7
III. Chapter 8................................................................................................................................ 15
IV. Chapter 9................................................................................................................................ 27
V. Chapter 10.............................................................................................................................. 33
I. Chapter 6

Personality, cognition, and social interaction (pp. 15-31) Hillsdale, NJ: Lawrence Erlbaum Associates.

II. Chapter 7

III. Chapter 8

IV. Chapter 9

Beck's cognitive model of depression maintains that negative thinking is a cause and primary symptom of depression. What evidence is there to support or refute this claim?

How do the attributions people make for important life events influence depression?

V. Chapter 10

Kolligan (Eds.), Competence considered (pp. 41-67). New Haven, CT: Yale University Press.

