

Statistics 582, Handout
Membership in Statistical Societies
Wellner; 3/9/2015

I would encourage all of you to become members of one or more Statistical Societies. Some possibilities include the following:

- Institute of Mathematical Statistics
- American Statistical Association
- Bernoulli Society (affiliated with the International Statistical Institute)
- Biometric Society.

Membership in several of these societies is free (IMS, Bernoulli Society) for PhD students, and others have reduced rates: (ASA, $17). I have posted information concerning memberships at <http://www.stat.washington.edu/jaw/COURSES/580s/582/w15.ho.html> .

See the following websites for further information and application forms:

- IMS: <http://imstat.org/membership/student.htm>
- ASA: <https://www.amstat.org/eseries/scriptcontent/BeWeb/Join/Individual/App/index.cfm?fuseaction=ShowApp>
- Bernoulli Society: <http://www.bernoulli-society.org/index.php/membership/membership-information>
- Biometric Society (Western North American Region): <http://wnar.org/membership/>
