

Assignment Sheet

I will attempt to stick with the following schedule for class assignments but due to the nature of this type of lab course changes may be made to the due dates of class assignments and their point values. If any changes are made, you will be informed BEFORE they are due. Below, BOLD indicates the assignment is not listed in chronological order.

*This is the only written assignment you turn in as a group for points

This is one of the individual posters that your group votes to represent them in the poster session. It is printed out full-size for display. You will lose participation points if it is not displayed at the beginning of class, but the group will NOT be graded on this poster except that a well-organized poster may facilitate your group oral presentation.

 You will receive the group grade on the group's oral presentation, but a few individuals may be selected by your group to give the presentation. The entire group should be present and should participate either in the presentation or in answering questions, or both!
