At a high level, collaboration is inherently volatile. The environment is dynamic and ever-changing, with participants being constantly in flux. Therefore, in order to make planning and scheduling a habit today are relatively complex and take more time than they used to. It is suggested that planning in advance increases efficiency by 30-50%. However, the devices/facilities offered for planning today are relatively complex and take more time than they used to. People in their daily lives, especially those who are working in dynamic and ever-changing work settings, do not plan their activities to a fixed schedule in order to make daily performances easier. It is suggested that planning in advance increases efficiency by 30-50%. However, the devices/facilities offered for planning today are relatively complex and take more time than they used to. Therefore, in order to make planning and scheduling a habit today are relatively complex and take more time than they used to. It is suggested that planning in advance increases efficiency by 30-50%. However, the devices/facilities offered for planning today are relatively complex and take more time than they used to.