

PIETSCH FAMILY GENEALOGY

Prepared by T. W. Pietsch III <twp@uw.edu>

As documented in the municipal archives of Darmstadt, Germany, the present lineage of the Pietsch family derives from Franz Karl Bitsch (1778–1848) and Luise Charlotte Marie Elisabeth Schmitt (1780–1856) who changed the family name from Bitsch to Pietsch shortly after arriving in America from Darmstadt on 1 March 1833. This does not necessarily negate the statement made by Walter Gray Pietsch (1875–1938) that our ancestors “came to this country [America] about 100 years ago from the Rhine Provinces—where the family had moved from France after the Revocation of the Edit of Nantes” in 1685 (Chicago Daily Tribune, 15 December 1923, p. 6), but supporting evidence for the latter is lacking.

Franz Karl BITSCH, born 1778, died Darmstadt, 4 August 1848; Catholic merchant of Würzburg (in northern Bavaria, central Germany, on the Main River), arrived in Darmstadt in 1810; with him were his wife, Luise Charlotte Marie Elisabeth Schmitt (born 4 April 1780 in Holzminden, southern Lower Saxony, Rhineland, died 14 (16?) August 1856, age 76, Baltimore), and a daughter, Katharina Barbara, born 29 May 1804 at the Hof in the Vogtland (at the court in Vogtland); in 1819, living at “apartment E 6” (now Rheinstrasse 2, near the Luisenplatz, a prominent corner in Darmstadt, in the main square in front of the palace of the Grand Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt, Louis I, 1753–1830, and next to “Die Traube,” the Inn of Darmstadt); by 1821 (still living at “apartment E 6” (now Rheinstrasse 2) he had become a citizen of Darmstadt; a merchant, whose shop became well known for its fine jewelry, cut glass, and china. In early November 1832, Luise Charlotte Marie Elisabeth Schmitt Bitsch (with daughters Eleonore Karoline and Maria Luise, and son Ludwig) left Darmstadt for Bremerhaven; sailed on 1 December 1832 for America aboard the brig WESER, arriving at the Port of Baltimore on 1 March 1833; sometime after March 1833 and before August 1836, Luise Charlotte changed the family name from Bitsch to Pietsch; on 4 October 1833, Franz Karl (age 56), with son Otto (age 13), departed Darmstadt, arriving at the Port of Baltimore, also aboard the WESER, on 30 March 1834; on 27 April 1835, he returned alone to Darmstadt, where he later had illegitimate (out of wedlock) twin boys, born 3 March 1844, with a woman named Marie Pfeifer, one unbaptized, died two days later, the other named Otto died 23 March 1844 (there is evidence of another possible relationship with Margarethe Richert, with whom he had a daughter, Elisabethe Regine Bitsch, born Darmstadt, 2 August 1844, christened 12 August 1844; see “Deutschland, Geburten und Taufen, 1558–1898,” FamilySearch.org); by 1845, Franz Karl, “former businessman,” was living at “apartment F 207” (now Frankfurter Straße 30); died, according to the protocol of the Catholic parish of Darmstadt, 4 August 1848, 70 years, 8 months and 17 days; buried 6 A.M., 7 August 1848 in the old graveyard (Alter Friedhof) on Nieder-Ramstädter Strasse, grave number H 13/12, but remains of the grave are no longer there (Peter Engels, Wissenschaftsstadt Darmstadt Stadtarchiv, 30 January 2013, and 15 September 2021). At least nine children, the boys all christened in the Catholic faith, the girls, Lutheran.

Luise Charlotte Marie Elisabeth SCHMITT, born 4 April 1780, Holzminden, southern Lower Saxony, Rhineland, died Baltimore, 14 August 1856, aged 76, buried 18 August 1856, in Meyer lot, Area R, Lot 53, permit number 9123, dated 18 August 1856, Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore; daughter of Johann Dietrich Schmitt and Christiana (Christina) Elisabeth Walbaum (born 14 September 1757, Holzminden, daughter of Christian Friedrich Walbaum, born 1730, Holzminden), the latter married (her second marriage, apparently his first) 20 June 1780, Holzminden; Luise Charlotte was the oldest of eight children, all born in Holzminden: Georg Dietrich Schmitt, born 24 August 1781; Charlotte Louisa Schmitt, born 7 September 1782; Carolina Amalia Schmitt, born 28 February 1785; Sophie Christiana Charlotte Schmitt, born 16 April 1787; Helena Wilhelmina Schmitt, born 14 May 1790; Johanna Lisetta Schmitt, born 9 August 1792; Justus Friedrich Schmitt, born 9 August 1792. Christiana Elisabeth was apparently married earlier, on 19 August 1777, in Holzminden, to Samuel Henrich Schönebaum, resulting in at least one child, Doris Schönebaum.

Children of Franz Karl Bitsch and Luise Charlotte Marie Elisabeth Schmitt:

- i. Katharina Barbara Bitsch, born Tuesday, 29 May 1804, at the Hof in the Vogtland (at the court in Vogtland), baptized 31 May 1804, a Lutheran, immigrated to Baltimore in September 1836, with illegitimate son Ludwig Venator Bitsch, born Darmstadt, 1 November 1830, baptized 23 November 1830. Married, Johannes Kraemer, at least one child, Katharina Barbara Kraemer, born 1847, married Adam Burkhardt, born 1845.
- ii. Unknown son, probably stillborn or died in infancy.
- iii. Unknown son, probably stillborn or died in infancy.
- iv. Ernst Emil Bitsch, born Darmstadt, 11 October 1810, a Catholic, became a citizen of Darmstadt on 7 September 1843, took on his father's profession of jeweler ("goldsmith"); in 1848, after the death of his father, he received a passport to travel to the German Federated States and never reappeared in Darmstadt.
- v. Eleonore Elisabeth Theodore Amalie Henriette Bitsch, born Darmstadt, 16 March 1812, baptized in Darmstadt, 9 April 1812, a Lutheran, died Darmstadt, 29 July 1812.
- vi. Maria Luisa (Bitsch) Pietsch, born Darmstadt, 3 July 1814, baptized in Darmstadt 28 July 1814 (records in the Zentralarchiv der Evangelische Kirche, Darmstadt, list her mother as Luise Marie Elisabeth; Best. 244, KB Darmstadt Nr. 12, baptisms, Film Nr. 2763), died 27 November 1897; arrived in Baltimore with her mother in 1833. Married, December 1838 at Zion Lutheran Church, Baltimore, Joseph Henry Meyer, born 1814, died 17 April 1860 (perhaps the Joseph Meyer of Kloppenburg, Germany, who arrived Baltimore, 26 May 1834, from Bremen aboard the Brig Burgermeister Smidt); at least seven children (all buried in Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore, Meyer Lot, Area R, Lot 53), but most died when quite young.

Children of Maria Luisa (Bitsch) Pietsch and Joseph Henry Meyer:

- i. Louisa Meyer, born 1839, died August 1840.
- ii. Joseph Henry Meyer, Jr., born 1843, died September 1846.
- iii. Joseph Henry Meyer Jr., born Baltimore, December 1851, died 11 April 1914, age 62 years. Married, 1885, Annie M.; lived at 704 East Chase street; buried in Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore, Area R, Lot 53; at least two children, both died prior to 1910.
- iv. Joseph Meyer, born 1854, died 21 February 1858.
- v. Henrietta Meyer, born 1858, died 12 September 1859.
- vi. Edward Meyer, born about 1860 (probably not Edward L. Meyer, born 8 July 1860, died 21 August 1936. Married, Loria M. Love, born 17 April 1868, died 10 March 1894; both buried Crown Hill City Cemetery, California, Moniteau County, Missouri).
- vii. Henry Meyer, born 1861, died 23 December 1864.
- viii. Eleonore Karoline (or Eleanore Caroline) (Bitsch) Pietsch, born Darmstadt, Saturday, 14 March 1818 (see Darmstädtisches Frag- und Anzeige-Blatt, number 11, Monday, 16 March 1818; see also Zentralarchiv der Evangelische Kirche, Darmstadt, Best. 244, KB Darmstadt Nr. 12, baptisms, Film Nr. 2764), died Maryland, 9 August 1906, aged 88 years, 5 months, and 6 days, buried on 13 August 1906; arrived in Baltimore with her mother in 1833; trained as a young girl in needlework, she brought her considerable talents to America, samples made while still living in Darmstadt are still extant, and after her marriage her embroidery and other fancy needlework “helped her good husband and laid the foundation not for great wealth, but for a carefree old age.” Married, 3 August 1836, at Zion Lutheran Church (by Rev. Heinrich (Henry) Scheib, sixth pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Baltimore, and founder in 1836 of “Scheib’s School”; witnessed by Falbert Schirmer), to Johann Karl “Charles” Halbach (born 8 September 1804; baptized Evangelisch, Remscheid, Prussia, 14 September 1804; died of “liver complaints,” 6 June 1870, aged 65, a hardware merchant) who immigrated to America from Remscheid in fall 1832; together they lived at 72 North Gay Street, Baltimore; their lives centered around Zion Lutheran Church and Johann especially was very active in church work, serving on the vestry of Zion Lutheran Church, on the Zion School Board, and the Treasurer of the Board for 27 years; together they lived at 630 North Carrollton Avenue, Baltimore, both are buried in Green Mount Cemetery, Area Poplar, lot 6; seven children.

In the quiet grave.—The funeral of Mrs. Eleonore Halbach, widow of Mr. Karl Halbach, who died August 9 at the advanced age of 89 years, took place yesterday morning in the presence of many mourners, at her home, 630 North Carrollton Ave., to Green Mount Cemetery. Pastor Julius Hofmann of the German-[speaking] Zion Church gave moving sermons both in the home and at the grave. Although it had been the express wish of the family that no flowers should be sent, some did so, including a wreath from the “Thekla Club” and a wreath from Miss Anna Uhrig. Performing the last honor as pallbearers were the deceased’s four grandsons, a nephew and a grandnephew, namely Messrs. Edward and Charles Behm, Charles and Rudolf Motz, and Andreas and Charles Pietsch. Mrs. Halbach was born March 13, 1818, in Darmstadt, and came to America at the age of 15. On August 3, 1836, she married Mr. Karl Halbach, who preceded her in death in 1870. The marriage bore 10 children, of which only the following three survive: Miss Emma Halbach, Mrs. Heinrich Böhm and Mrs. Rudolf F. Motz. In addition to these children she leaves 7 grandchildren. Mrs. Halbach was probably the oldest member of the German-[speaking] Zion Church, having been a member for 73 years. She was a reader of Der Deutsche Correspondent newspaper since its first edition. (Der Deutsche Correspondent, Baltimore, Maryland, 14 August 1906, translated from the original German)

Funeral of a respected man. Well-known citizen Carl Halbach of Gary Street near the bridge, was buried at Green Mount Cemetery yesterday afternoon. The Rev. Pastor Scheib made a eulogy to the deceased in the home, in which he faithfully described the life and religious convictions of our esteemed fellow-citizen and commended his life as one to be imitated. The pastor touched on the deceased’s zeal for church and school, his transformation as a true Christian, and as faithful husband and father. In him a noble man and friend has departed from our midst. Pallbearers were Messrs. J. Seeger, H. Becker, J. Uhrich, D. Peters, H. Reitz and C. Hirsch. The body was followed by 30 carriages with relatives and friends of the deceased. Also, many members of the Schützen Gesellschaft [hunting-shooting club], to which the deceased belonged, were in full uniform under leadership of Gen. Blumenburg and others, and gave the body its final escort. Pastor Scheib spoke at the grave and just as the sun kissed the earth in the west, the coffin was lowered into the grave. Mr. Halbach leaves behind a wife and 5 children (3 sons and 2 daughters). He was a member of Zion’s congregation for 30 years. (Der Deutsche Correspondent, Baltimore, Maryland, 9 June 1870, translated from the original German)

Children of Eleonore Karoline (Bitsch) Pietsch and Johann Karl “Charles” Halbach:

- i. Charles Michael Halbach, born 23 (28?) August 1839, died 25 September 1856, aged 17, buried 26 September 1856, Meyer lot, Area R, Lot 53, Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore.
- ii. Louisa Marie Halbach, born Maryland, 5 November 1843, died 29 November 1920. Married, 20 June 1865, Zion Lutheran Church, Heinrich (“Henry”) Julius Theodor Behn, born Bremen, Germany, 12 July 1833, died Baltimore 1923; merchant, traveling salesman, wholesale dry goods; Civil War Draft Registration, 20 August 1863; alive in 1920, living at 2527 St. Paul Street, Baltimore; four children.

Children of Louisa Marie Halbach and Heinrich Julius Theodor Behn:

- i. Eleanor (“Ella”) Katinka Behn, born 27 February 1867, died 1950; music teacher, single, living at home in 1910 (Mosher Street, Baltimore) and 1920 (2527 St. Paul Street, Baltimore); in 1930, single, living with brother Charles, 933 Gorsuch Avenue, Baltimore.
- ii. Edward Christoph Behn, born 12 April 1870, died 1956; real estate agent, single, living at home in 1910 (Mosher Street, Baltimore) and 1920 (2527 St. Paul Street, Baltimore). Married, Corinne Baham, born Louisiana, 18 February 1885, died 1940, daughter of Andrew J. Baham and Lucinda Bankston.
- iii. Charles Henry Behn, born Baltimore 10 April 1876, died 1951; University of Maryland Class of 1899; a lawyer, private practice; World War I Draft Registration, 12 September 1918; single, living at home in 1910 and 1920 (2527 St. Paul Street, Baltimore); in 1930, still single, living with sister Eleanor, 933 Gorsuch Avenue, Baltimore. Married, mid-1930s, Gretchen Hintze Knollenberg, born Baltimore, 20 December 1891, died 1967; daughter of Herman Knollenberg and Louisa Hintze; both buried at Loudon Park Cemetery, Baltimore; at least one child.

Child of Charles Henry Behn and Gretchen Hintze Knollenberg:

- i. Elsie L. Behn, born 1916, died 1976; married Connorton.
- iv. Anina Louise Behn, born Maryland 12 October 1884, died Palm Beach County, Florida, September 1961; single, living at home in 1910 and 1920 (2527 St. Paul Street, Baltimore); an accountant. Married, about 1925, William Conrad Doeing, born Buffalo, New York, 28 May 1880, died Buffalo, 30 October 1949, son of Henry Doeing and Rosa Genetsen.
- iii. Louise Emilia Caroline Halbach, born 25 February 1847, died 23 June 1848 (buried in Meyer lot, Area R, Lot 53, Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore).
- iv. Herman Frederick Halbach, born 6 January 1851, died 24 January 1894; at age 36 studied to become a lawyer, passed the bar, and practiced at 19 East Saratoga Street; never married, no issue.

Death yields a bountiful harvest.—Another German-American, attorney Hermann F. Halbach, departed this life yesterday evening after a long illness at the age of 43 years. The too-soon departed was born here in Baltimore, the son of late cutlery dealer Karl Halbach, who surely remains in the memory of many of the German-speaking community, and after graduating from Maryland University, attended Schieb's school to gain practical experience in the profession, and earned a good reputation; his office was on Saratoga, between Charles and St. Paul Streets. He was unmarried and leaves behind only his mother, whose home is at No. 1209 West Fayette Street, and with whom the deceased lived, as well as three sisters, Mrs. Louise Behn, Mrs. Emilie Motz and Emma. (Der Deutsche Correspondent, Baltimore, Maryland, 25 January 1894, translated from the German)

v. Emilie Eleonore Halbach, born 9 March 1853, died 7 November 1923; married, 28 May 1874, Zion Lutheran Church, Friedrich Wilhelm Rudolph Motz, born 28 May 1845, died 10 March 1915 (see The Germanic Heritage of the Motz Family, by Catherine Grauel Motz, undated, published by Paul M. Harrod Co., Baltimore); both buried in Green Mount Cemetery.

vi. Emma Caroline Halbach, born 28 November 1854, died 27 January 1943, the last of the Halbachs in Baltimore; the author of a family memoir entitled "Auld Lang Syne" (see The Germanic Heritage of the Motz Family, by Catherine Grauel Motz, undated, published by Paul M. Harrod Co., Baltimore).

vii. Charles J. Halbach, born 29 March 1858, died 28 January 1883; never married, no issue.

2. viii. Otto Friedrich Eberhard Wilhelm Pietsch, born Darmstadt, 30 May 1820, in a house on the Luisenplatz in Darmstadt; baptized 6 June 1830, a Catholic; died Baltimore, Saturday, 2 May 1874, buried 4 May 1874, at Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. W, Lot 31, grave 8; emigrated from Darmstadt to Baltimore, arriving, with his father, on 30 March 1834; naturalized 11 June 1844 in District Court of Maryland; a confirmed Catholic. First marriage, 29 March 1840, at Zion Lutheran Church, Baltimore (witnessed by Karl Gelbach), to an Evangelical Lutheran, Anna Christina (or Christiana) Karmrodt, born 26 September 1821, Kingdom of Saxony, Prussia, died Baltimore, 25 October 1861, age 40 years and 29 days (Baltimore Sun, 26 October 1861, p. 2), buried at Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. W, Lot 31, grave 9. Second marriage, 25 July 1865, Mary Catherine Rebecca Miller, born 20 February 1828, died Baltimore, 7 November 1903, buried at Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. W, Lot 31, grave 7. New headstones for Otto, Anna, and Catherine erected 2019.

ix. Ludwig (Louis) Georg Friedrich (Bitsch) Pietsch, born Darmstadt, 21 January 1823, a Catholic; arrived in Baltimore with his mother and sisters in 1833; became a clerk (book keeper); according to registration forms in the Darmstadt City Archives, he is to be stopped upon reentry because he departed without fulfilling military service. Married, 3 September 1847, Zion Lutheran Church, Elisabeth (or Elisabet) Schera (Schertz or Scherz); a least one child, died in infancy.

Child of Ludwig Georg Friedrich (Bitsch) Pietsch and Elisabeth Schera (or Schertz):

- i. Luisa Katharina Pietsch, born 29 May 1848, baptized at Zion Lutheran Church, 13 July 1848.

2. Otto Friedrich Eberhard Wilhelm Pietsch, born 30 May 1820 in a house on the Luisenplatz in Darmstadt, Hesse, Germany; died in Baltimore after a short illness (“affliction of the heart”), Saturday morning, 2 May 1874 (date of burial permit, 2 May 1874), buried 4 May 1874, at Loudon Park Cemetery (Sec. W, Lot 31, grave 8, second grave from north side, headstone broken); confirmed as a Catholic in 1833; emigrated from Darmstadt to Baltimore, arriving on 30 March 1834, with his father; listed as “jeweler & watchmaker” in Silver in Maryland, Catalogue and Exhibition by Jennifer F. Goldsborough, 1984, p. 275; listed in Baltimore City Directories from 1845 as “watchmaker,” living at 161 Franklin Street; by 1858 and later, listed at 171 North Franklin Street; a very large man, about six feet tall and weighed over 300 lbs. (for several years toward the end of his life “he seldom has gone more than a square from his dwelling”; Baltimore Sun, 4 May 1874, p. 4). First marriage, 29 March 1840, at Zion Lutheran Church, Baltimore (witnessed by Karl Gelbach), to an Evangelical Lutheran, Anna Christina (or Christiana) Karmrodt, born 26 September 1821, Prussia, Kingdom of Saxony, died Baltimore, 25 October 1861, age 40 years and 29 days (Baltimore Sun, 26 October 1861, p. 2), buried at Loudon Park Cemetery (Sec. W, Lot 31, grave 9, third from north side). Second marriage, 25 July 1865, Mary Catherine Rebecca Miller, born 20 February 1828, died of “acute indigestion,” 7 November 1903 in Baltimore, buried at Loudon Park Cemetery (Sec. W, Lot 31, grave 7, first on north side, headstone broken); after death of Otto in 1874 she went to live with daughter Sarah Elizabeth Pietsch and Ambrose Marshall Irving (see below). New headstones for Otto, Anna, and Catherine erected 2019. Ten children by first marriage, two by second marriage.

Children by first wife, Otto Friedrich Eberhard Wilhelm Pietsch and Anna Christina Karmrodt:

- i. Mary (Maria) Eva Pietsch, born Baltimore, 24 December 1840, baptized Zion Lutheran Church, 12 July 1841 (sponsored by Maria Konrad), died 3 July 1920 (old letters refer to “Aunt Mary”). Married, Zion Lutheran Church, Baltimore, 30 April 1858, William (Wilhelm) Ferdinand Thiede, born Wilhelmsburg, Hamburg-Mitte, Germany, 16 March 1822, died 23 December 1911 in Baltimore (immigrated 1845, naturalized 17 March 1855, passport issued 14 April 1880); he is buried in the Thiede lot at Loudon Park Cemetery (Sec. AA, Lot 87), she is buried in Druid Ridge Cemetery, Pikesville, Maryland (see notes below); lived at 705 Carrollton Avenue, Baltimore; he was a music teacher and famous bassoonist who played for Jenny Lind; he came to the United States from a regimental band in Wilhelmsburg, Germany; listed in Baltimore City Directory of 1860 as W. F. Thiede, Piano Depot, 82 West Fayette, 142 North Paca Street; six children, three died as infants.

Mary and her husband William separated permanently in 1897 following a family quarrel between her husband and their youngest son, Gustav. She took Gustav's side, while their other surviving children, William Jr., and Anna, sided with William. According to a 1910 lawsuit concerning the settlement of some of their property: "The family was hopelessly divided. Mrs. Thiede had long been separated from her husband by his own volition. On one side she stood with her youngest son and the granddaughter who had been committed to her care and confidence by her deceased daughter. On the other side stood her husband with her oldest son, and her married daughter with her husband, and there was a great gulf between them. The record does not disclose who was most at fault, but there was no hope of reconciliation, though it does appear that Mrs. Thiede always sought to maintain cordial relations with all her children."

Children of Mary Eva Pietsch and William Ferdinand Thiede:

- i. Mary Caroline Thiede, born Baltimore 31 March 1859, died Baltimore 2 April 1861, aged 2 years, 2 days; buried in Thiede lot at Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. AA, lot 87 ("Dear little Mary only daughter of Wm. F. and Mary E. Thiede").
- ii. William Ferdinand Thiede Jr., born Baltimore January 1861, died Baltimore 7 January 1936. Married, Ella A. Goettman, born Maryland November 1860, died Baltimore 9 February 1935, age 74 or 75; both buried in Thiede lot at Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. AA, lot 87).
- iii. Thomas ("Tommy") Jefferson Jackson Thiede, born Baltimore 21 February 1863, died Baltimore 16 January 1865, aged 23 months, 5 days; buried in Thiede lot at Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. AA, lot 87 ("To our beloved Tommy").
- iv. Louise ("Loulie") Emma Thiede, born Baltimore, 3 July 1865, died Baltimore, 9 October 1886, of heart disease at age 21; buried in Thiede lot at Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. AA, lot 87 ("In Memory of Loulie beloved wife of Wm. Ashman, daughter of Wm. F. & Mary E. Thiede"). Married, Washington, D.C., 1 August 1884, William Ashman, born Baltimore 1 June 1861, died Saranac Lake, New York, 14 February 1902, buried in Druid Ridge Cemetery, Pikesville, Maryland; at least one child.

Dies of Heart Disease.—Mrs. Louise E. Ashman, wife of William Ashman and daughter of Prof. W. F. Thiede, died suddenly early Saturday morning of heart disease at her residence, No. 57 North Eutaw street. She retired seemingly in good health Friday night. Mrs. Ashman was 20 [21] years old, and had been married a little over a year ("Find a Grave," otherwise source unknown).

Child of Louise Emma Thiede and William Ashman:

- i. Anna Louise ("Lulu") Ashman, born Baltimore January 1885, died 16 April 1953; raised by her grandmother, Mary Eva Pietsch Thiede, after her mother's death in 1886 and her grandparents' separation (see above); said to be a "raving beauty," was on the stage. First marriage, 1914, Wallace Burgess Bruce, born Baltimore, 19 June 1889, died Baltimore, 12 January 1922, buried Druid Ridge Cemetery, Pikesville, Maryland. Second marriage, 1927, George Durham Magers, born 9 December 1878, died 27 April 1951. One child from first marriage.

Child of Anna Louise Ashman and Wallace Burgess Bruce:

- i. Wallace Burgess Bruce Jr., born Baltimore, 8 August 1915, died Auburn, Washington, 27 March 1975.
- v. Florence Thiede, born 7 December 1868, died 7 June 1869; buried in Thiede lot at Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. AA, lot 87 ("To our baby Florence, daughter of Wm. F. and M. E. Thiede").
- vi. Gustav ("Gus") Adolf Thiede, born Baltimore 14 May 1872, died at his home, 1530 West Lanvale Street, Baltimore, 16 February 1920, age 47; funeral services held at 1 o'clock the following afternoon, the Rev. Joseph H. Cudlipp of Cumming's Memorial Church officiating, pallbearers Howard Frank, Harry A. Beaumont, John D. Liddell, John H. Weems, Albert Pawley, and Ernest Mullican; buried next to his mother in Druid Ridge Cemetery, Pikesville, Maryland; a physician, Maryland Medical College; later health warden and former school health inspector. Married, Rockville, Maryland, 30 April 1903, Mary Mae Creager, born Walkersville, Maryland, 10 July 1881, died 2 October 1950; after Gustav's death, she remarried, Cortlandt W. Dietrich (born 31 October 1885, died 8 May 1961), a widower, on 1 May 1943. One child.

Child of Gustav Adolf Thiede and Mary Mae Creager:

- i. William Creager Thiede, born Baltimore, 23 April 1904, died 6 May 1929; married 8 August 1928, Madeline Elizabeth Motley, born 24 April 1902, died 21 May 1991.
- vii. Anna ("Annie") Gertrude Thiede, born Baltimore, 26 June 1875, died Hagerstown, Maryland, 24 December 1961, age 86. Married, 1893, Henry Paddington Startzman, born Baltimore 24 February 1871, died Baltimore 3 October 1933; both buried in Thiede lot at Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. AA, lot 87; two children.
 - i. Son, stillborn, 30 April 1894.
 - ii. Henry Hollingsworth Startzman, born Baltimore, 8 July 1896, died Hagerstown, Maryland, 12 October 1970. Married, Baltimore, 17

October 1922, Mildred Ella Sheely, born Baltimore, February 1900, died Hagerstown, 13 April 1973; two children.

Children of Henry Hollingsworth Startzman and Mildred Ella Sheely:

- i. Ruth Anne Startzman, born Baltimore, 19 January 1924, died Hagerstown, Maryland, 26 April 1993. Married, Don John Russell, born Paulding, Ohio, 19 December 1919, died Hagerstown, 17 September 1969.
 - ii. Henry Hollingsworth Startzman Jr., born Baltimore, 28 August 1925, died 11 Nov 2021, age 96, a radiologist; married Peggy Ann Thumma, born 1926, died 18 October 2018.
- ii. Maria Louisa (“Aunt Lou”) Caroline Pietsch, born Baltimore, 2 August 1842, baptized Zion Lutheran Church, 27 August 1843, died 28 January 1917. Married, Albert Gallagher, born Baltimore, 4 February 1825, died Crownsville, Maryland, 18 July 1898 (listed together in 1870 U.S. Federal Census; Louise listed as widow in 1900 Census); buried together in Druid Ridge Cemetery, Pikesville, Maryland (Area Linden, Lot 65; headstone reads “Loved in Life, in Death Remembered”); lived on a farm on Pikesville Road, Crownsville, outside Baltimore; the Gallagher farm was located on what is now Pimlico Race Track; at one time, the club house for Pimlico was the old Gallagher home; in addition to horses they had fruit trees and gamecocks and were friends with Albert Cabell Ritchie, who became governor of Maryland in 1919 (Charles Richard Irving, “Uncle Dick,” St. Petersburg, Florida, pers. comm., 3 June 2009); he had a famous trotter as his carriage horse; she was a spiritualist; two children.

Children of Maria Louisa Caroline Pietsch and Albert Gallagher:

- i. - ii. Thomas Albert Pietsch, born Baltimore, 21 November 1870, died Baltimore of acute encephalitis, 27 April 1926, age 55 years, 5 months, buried 30 April 1926, Loudon Park, Sec. W, Lot 165 N ½, grave 1; a mechanic, “foreman No. 3” in B & O machine shop in Mt. Clare, Baltimore (see Railway Journal, vol. 20, p, 15, April 1914); in 1890 living at 25 Fawn Hill Ave; he is said to have inherited the Pietsch family Bible as well as the deed to the Pietsch lot at Loudon Park Cemetery. Married, Baltimore, 12 September 1894, Mary Elizabeth Kratz, born Baltimore, 18 October 1870, died Catonsville, Maryland, 30 December 1962, age 92; buried Loudon Park Cemetery, Sec. W, Lot 165 N ½, grave 2; five children, two unnamed, dying in infancy; another, Ruth, dying at 6 months.

Funeral services for Thomas A. Pietsch, who died Tuesday at St. Agnes’s Hospital after a brief illness, were conducted at this home, 3408 Wilkens avenue, yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Edwin E. Ide, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church. Burial was at Loudon Park. Mr. Pietsch had been in the employ of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company at the Mount Claire shops for forty years and was a member of the Baltimore and Ohio Veterans, composed of those who have been in the employ of the company thirty years or more. He was a past master of Millington Lodge of Masons, which conducted the ritual of the order at the grave. The ritual of the Junior Order United American Mechanics was conducted by a delegation from Pioneer Council. Mr. Pietsch is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Edgar F. Shepard (Baltimore Sun, 1 May 1926, p. 5).

Children of Thomas Albert Pietsch and Mary Elizabeth Kratz:

- i. Anna Marie (“Nannie”) Pietsch, born Baltimore, 11 July 1895, died Catonsville, Maryland, 8 July 1974, buried Lorraine Park Mausoleum, Woodlawn, Baltimore, Maryland, 10 July 1974. Married, Baltimore, 23 June 1913, Edgar Seymour Sheppard, born Richmond City, Virginia, 15 May 1887, died Asheboro, Randolph County, North Carolina, 7 October 1975 (son of Henry Clay Sheppard and Lelia S. Snead; both buried Hollywood Cemetery, Richmond City, Virginia); known as “Pop” to his children, he attended the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and, although only 5’ 9” and 135 lbs., played “quarter back” for the Virginia Tech football team in the fall of 1907 in a post-graduate year; he was also shortstop and captain of the baseball team in the springs of 1907 and 1908; he later became a journeyman machinist at the B & O shops and married the boss’s 17-year-old daughter; later in life worked for the U.S. Department of Labor as a field representative in the Apprentice-Training Service; one child.

Child of Anna Marie Pietsch and Edgar Seymour Sheppard:

- i. Robert Clay (“Bob”) Sheppard, born Baltimore, 15 May 1914, died Baltimore, 26 April 1964; buried Loudon Park Cemetery, Baltimore, 29 April 1964; graduated 1934 from University of Maryland in pharmacy, became a urologist. Married, Baltimore, 8 July 1943, Nancy Lou Craven, born Ramseur, Randolph, North Carolina, 18 August 1916, died Asheboro, Randolph, North Carolina, 21 June 1994; buried 24 June 1994, Oaklawn Cemetery, Asheboro.

W, Lot 165 N ½, grave SW corner; “although only a little over 20 years of age [he] was the proprietor of the West End Garage and was well known in S. W. Baltimore. He came into local prominence last summer when he on his motorcycle chased to Washington some negroes in an automobile who had knocked a child down and had been brought back for trial.”
- iii. Ruth Pietsch, born 18 November 1901, died of “meningitis,” 2 June 1902, burial permit dated 3 June 1902, age 6 months, 14 days, buried Loudon Park, Baltimore, Sec. W, Lot 31, moved on 3 September 1903 to Sec. W, Lot 165 N ½, no marker found.

3. Charles Francis Pietsch, called “Frank” by family and friends, born 6 October 1844 in Baltimore, died at his home (22 East Huron Street, Chicago) of pneumonia (following a broken leg suffered from a fall on winter ice) on Friday, 7 May 1920, aged 75 years, 7 months, 1 day, buried 10 May 1920 in the Pietsch family lot at Graceland Cemetery, Chicago (Sec. N, Lot 47, grave 7); reared in Baltimore and educated at the then famous Professor “Scheib’s School” (founded in 1836 by eminent scholar Heinrich (Henry) Scheib, sixth pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Baltimore; for decades the bilingual school was a landmark in liberal education, attended by children of different faiths)—not the Charles Pietsch who served as a private in the Union Army, 5th Regiment, Maryland Infantry, Company K, from October 1861 to October 1864, captured by the enemy in Fair Oaks, Virginia, on 27 October 1864, died while a prisoner of war in Salisbury, North Carolina, on 1 December 1865—living at home according to the 1860 Federal Census; listed in the Baltimore City Directory for 1865–1866 as “bookkeeper,” living at 34 North Calvert Street, Baltimore; moved with his wife to Chicago by train in 1866 where he was connected for a short time with the drug firm of Gale & Blocki (Edwin Oscar Gale and William Blocki who together ran several drugstores in Chicago, including a prime location in the historic Palmer House Hotel, now the Palmer House Hilton); fled the Great Chicago Fire, 8–10 October 1871, with wife and two oldest sons, traveling northward, then westward, until they caught a train to Indianapolis where they stayed until they found a new home on the west side of Chicago; eventually built a house at 305

Huron Street (later renumbered 22 East Huron); identified as “Chicago’s oldest publisher,” he was, from 1867 on, associated with newspapers printed in the German language; he was secretary, treasurer, and general business manager of the Illinois Staats-Zeitung Company (founded 21 April 1848) from 1 July 1867 until the paper was bankrupted on 15 February 1899 (see Chicago Daily Tribune, 16 February 1899, p. 12; see also https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Illinois_Staats-Zeitung); founded in 1904 Das Wochenblatt (with associate, a Mr. Cook, first issue printed on 31 March 1904, a weekly American magazine and newspaper printed in the German language, headquartered at 35 North Dearborn Street; “If You Can Read German, Subscribe to Das Wochenblatt, One Dollar Per Year, All Authentic News in a Nutshell,” Chicago Daily Tribune, 11 September 1914, p. 3), which he was publishing at the time of his death. Passport application dated 2 July 1892, described as “manager of newspaper,” age 47, 5 feet 10 inches, forehead high, eyes brown, nose regular, mouth medium, chin round, hair grey and thin, complexion fair, face full. According to Richard Francis Pietsch (in his unpublished memoir, copy in the Pietsch archive), friends called him “Frank”; he was “about 5’ 9”, bald, with a white walrus moustache, rotund and ideal for the role of Santa Claus, which he often played at Christmas. He was very kind, had a jolly sense of humor and very musical, especially on piano and cello. Often friends in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra would come over to his house on East Huron Street for musicals.” During the 1870s and 1880s he was prominent in the musical life of Chicago (an accomplished musician himself, he was a friend of Theodore Thomas, Frederick Stock, and other prominent musicians of those early days); it was largely through his efforts that the first chamber concerts were held in Brand’s hall in 1879, as well as the first symphonic concert in the old Central Music hall the following year; he was also for many years secretary and treasurer of the Schiller Theater Building (later known as the Dearborn Theater and later still, the Garrick Theater).

First marriage, 14 June 1866, Florence Augusta Wells (whose parents, Lewis Wheeler Wells and Affa Maria Gray, were originally from Connecticut but settled in Maryland prior to the outbreak of the Civil War; see Wells Family Genealogy), born in Columbus, Georgia, 11 November 1845, died Baltimore, 20 March 1877 (age 31 years, 4 months, 6 days; date of burial permit, 21 March 1877; cause of death “caseous phthisis,” i.e., tuberculosis, aggravated by exhaustion, according to death certificate), after a prolonged illness (two years according to death certificate) at the home of her parents, 222 Lanvale Street, Baltimore; funeral at Grace Episcopal Church, Monument and Park avenues; buried with parents at Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore (Area L, Lot 86); (see Wells Family Genealogy).

New Music.—From Mr. Henry McCaffrey, 205 Baltimore Street, we have copies of the musical publications: “I’ll Think of Thee,” by C. Pietsch, and dedicated to Miss Florence A. Wells (Baltimore Sun, 18 March 1864, page 1); 1865 Civil War Sheet Music, “I’ll Think of Thee,” by C. Francis Pietsch.

Second marriage, 2 January 1879, Anna Harris Hobart, born Boston, Massachusetts, 7 April 1853, died 9 January 1932, aged 79 years, 9 months, and 2 days; buried 11 January 1932 at Graceland Cemetery, Chicago (Sec. N, Lot 47, grave 9); daughter of Charles

Gustavus Hobart (1822–1875) and Anna Louise Ballard (1826–1857), she was active in charity, a member of the Chicago Woman’s Club, member of the Board of Managers of the Chicago Hospital for Women and Children (May 1895), a delegate to the biennial convention of the general federation of woman’s clubs held in Boston (June 1908), president of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind (“ivy . . . planted on the east wall of the building [the Lighthouse, 3332 West 22nd Street] in memory of the late Mrs. Charles F. Pietsch . . .” Chicago Daily Tribune, 21 May 1932)

Charles F. Pietsch departed from life: The editor of Das Wochenblatt, the jovial old Mr. Pietsch is no longer amongst the living; on Monday the 10th of this month, his mortal remains were committed to the earth at Graceland Cemetery in Chicago, after episcopal vicar Dr. Rogers held an impressive funeral celebration in the chapel and gave a prayer on the grave of the deceased. In addition to family members, numerous old friends and acquaintances came to pay tributes of respect and love, and the deceased found his last resting place amongst a mass of flowers. Daily sorrows of everyday life will not affect him anymore—he escaped the excitements and deficiencies of the last eventful years, which complicated his life, as they did to others in his profession of editing a German speaking newspaper. He was not to see the dawn of a new era, the return to the old democratic freedom of America, even though this was one of his most desired wishes, because Charles F. Pietsch was an American of the old school, conservative to the core, the Constitution was his political gospel.

May the earth be light on him. . . .

Mr. Pietsch was born on 6 October 1844 in Baltimore, Maryland, the son of German immigrant parents, and after he had worked in his youth in the German import business there, he moved at the age of 22 years, that is, in 1866, to Chicago, where he lived and worked for fifty-four years until his death. Here he lived for 45 years in his self-built home at 22 East Huron Street.

In Chicago, he initially worked in a wholesale pharmacy, and joined soon thereafter, in 1867, the Illinois Staats Zeitung as a manager, and, together with A. C. Hesing and the literary manager Hermann Raster, he acted for over thirty years also as the secretary and treasurer of the State Newspapers Corporation. In 1899, he retired into private life, only to found Das Wochenblatt five years later, in 1904, and remained its editor until his death. The conservative and liberal spirit that is noticeable in the columns of the Wochenblatt, and which gained many friends and sponsors among its readers, was the same spirit and attitude of the deceased, and all were influenced by him.

Mr. Pietsch had gained many friends through his simple and friendly nature and through his helpfulness, especially in the early years. With him, an American of German descent passed away, whose memory will be cherished by all who knew him more closely.

Amongst his special pleasures was music—really dignified music. He was close friends with the late Theodore Thomas, and although he did not pursue music as a breadwinner, he was a practiced cellist, and especially due to his effort, the first chamber orchestra concerts were performed in Brand’s Hall in 1879, as well as the first symphony concert in the old Central Music Hall the following year.

The deceased leaves a widow, Mrs. Hanna [i.e., Anna] Hobart Pietsch, and three married sons, Frank Hesing, former manager of the Edelweiss Brewery [i.e., Schoenhofen Brewing Co., Chicago] and now busy in the automobile trade, Theodore Wells, successful architect in Baltimore, and Walter Gray Pietsch, resident in Evanston. (Das Wochenblatt, Thursday, 13 May 1920, 17 (12), p. 1, translated from the German.)

Children by first wife, Charles Francis Pietsch and Florence Augusta Wells:

- i. Frank Hesing Pietsch, called “Frankie” by friends and relatives, born Chicago, 21 May 1867, died by suicide (said to have resulted from health and employment worries) on 10 February 1939, aged 71 years, 8 months, 9 days (obituary apparently never published); resting at chapel, 2701, N. Clark street; services at Graceland Cemetery chapel, 2 p.m., Monday (Chicago Tribune, 12 February, p. 24); cremated 13 February 1939, buried 17 March 1939 at Graceland Cemetery, Chicago (Sec. N, Lot 113, grave 11); at least in the years 1879 and 1880 (ages 12 and 13), he attended Professor J. P. Lauth’s School—”The annual closing exercises of Prof. Lauth’s English, German, and classical school occurred yesterday at 2 p.m. in the school-rooms, 361 North Clark street. A previous examination of two days revealed great proficiency of the students in the various branches of mathematics, Latin, English, and German languages. The exercises consisted of German and English essays, dialogues, recitations, and declamations. The programme was judiciously arranged and when carried out, the audience frequently approving by enthusiastic applause. At the conclusion, Mr. Lauth made a few appropriate remarks to the audience and pupils, after which he awarded quite a large number of prizes to the most deserving, among whom were: In the first class, Henry Schoellkopi”, Walter Ullrich, Frank Hinsdale, and Miss Mary Lambin; second, Frank Pietsch . . .” (Chicago Tribune, 28 June 1879, page 6; see also Chicago Tribune, 26 June 1880, page 6)—his middle name came from his father’s friend and business associate Anton Caspar Hesing (born 1823, president of the Illinois Staats-Zeitung when he died 31 March 1895); a director of the Golden Hope Mining Company, Cripple Creek, Colorado, incorporated on 8 December 1895; in 1906 he was manager of the Schoenhofen Brewing Co. in Chicago (maker of Edelweiss, a best-selling brand of lager beer), but later a salesman of cars and trucks; in 1922 he was working for the Kelly-Springfield Motor Truck Company of Springfield, Ohio; a member of the Chicago Automobile Club for which he served as a vice-president in 1907 and 1908; described by Richard Francis Pietsch in his unpublished memoir as “very charming, but he had a drinking problem brought on by entertaining customers, and in later years it led to irregular employment and eventually suicide; married three times, no children.

First marriage, Wednesday, 4 September 1889, to Florence Talbot “Kitty” Rogers of Appleton, Wisconsin, born 24 January 1864, died 21 May 1931; divorced in 1919. Her parents, Henry James Rogers (born New York, 3 September 1833, died 27 July 1896, aged 62 years, 10 months, buried 29 July 1896) and Crimora (or Cremora) Banks Kehler (sometimes “Koehler”), born Virginia, 14 June 1837 (but her headstone says 14 June 1844), died 1 March 1919, aged 74 years, 8 months, 15 days, buried 3 March 1919), built the first private residence anywhere in the world to be illuminated using hydroelectricity from a central Edison system; it is now the Hearthstone Historic House Museum, along the Fox River in Appleton, Wisconsin, on the National Register of Historic Places (see hearthstonemuseum.org/home). Frank is buried in the Pietsch lot at Graceland Cemetery, Chicago (Sec. N, Lot 113, grave 11); Florence is buried in Riverside Cemetery, in Asheville, North Carolina (Sec. L, Lot 24, grave 4).

Second marriage, Lake, Indiana, 6 April 1920, Myra L. Platt, born Illinois, September 1892, death unknown (daughter of Jesse Platt, born 1857, and Rena T. Platt, born 1861); divorced, married again, New Rochelle, New York, 19 February 1929; operatic ambitions (chairwoman of the committee of the Woman’s and Children’s Hospital; “Children’s Hospital to Benefit by Opera,” portrait published in Chicago Daily Tribune, 17 November 1925).

Third marriage, about 1929, Marion L. Meyers, born Illinois, 24 June 1901, died San Francisco, 5 October 1989; buried Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael, Marin County, California; some 34 years younger, his widow after suicide from health and employment worries, she later moved to San Francisco to open a gift shop; married again, H. P. (John Peter) Lauth’s Academy, 361 North Clark Street, commencement exercises, 24 June 1881 (see The Inter Ocean, Chicago, 25 June 1881, page 3); entered the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in September 1885 (see The Third Book of ‘89, a reunion book produced by the class of 1889 to celebrate the 25th anniversary of its graduation from MIT), but left in May 1888, without earning a degree; returning to Chicago, he began his career working for the architectural firms of Flanders & Zimmerman (John Flanders and William Carby Zimmerman) and Burnham & Root (Daniel Hudson Burnham and John Wellborn Root), both of Chicago; left the U.S. on 12 September 1891 for Paris (passport application dated 25 August 1891, while living at 305 Huron Street, Chicago; described as “draughtsman,” age 23, stature 6 feet, 1 inch, forehead medium height, eyes brown, nose straight, chin round, hair light brown, curly, complexion clear, face long, mustache) where he lived initially at 9 rue Compagne Première and later at 7 rue des Saint Pères; recommended on 28 November 1891 to the Directeur de l’Ecole National des Beaux Arts by the U.S. Legation in Paris, Mr. Whitelaw Reid, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary (France); in his first attempt to pass the entrance requirements, in February 1892, he ranked forty-ninth among 300 applicants (only thirty were admitted); in a second attempt, in July, 1892, he ranked first out of 250 applicants, the first American to ever achieve the honor of entering the Beaux Arts rank one (see Chicago Chronicle, 19 December 1897, p. 6); admitted to the department of Architecture on 1 August 1892 (No. 7248 du Registre Matricule); initially a student of Charles Wable (1846–1908), later (in 1892) Marcel-Noël Lambert (1847–1928, professor at the Ecole des Beaux Arts from 1888–1912, chief architect of the Versailles estate); ranked first in his class; awarded two bronze medals, in descriptive geometer and in architectural history; received the French Government Diploma for Architecture on 17 December 1897 (see Chicago Daily Tribune, 19 December 1897, p. 13; see also the Chicago Chronicle, 19 December 1897, p. 5), the ninth (?) American to receive this award (thesis project: design for a crematorium; original drawings in the Ryerson and Burnham Archives, Art Institute of Chicago; published by Armand Guérinet, L’Architecture aux Salons, 1898, pls. 143–145, 161–163; and in The Inland Architect and News Record, 31(2):12, March 1898 (see also 31(5):44, June 1898; 31(6):57, July 1898; 32(6):53, January 1899); honorary mention (drawings exhibited) at the Salon (Paris) in 1898; after his return to the U.S. in 1898, he spent two years in New York offices, with competitive work (for a time, with the architectural firm of Howard, Cauldwell & Morgan); this was followed by three or four years in Washington, D.C., where for more than a year he was in the employ of Messrs. Hornblower & Marshall, and after that, for some two years, as “Designer” in the Office of the Supervising Architect, Mr. James King Taylor; when the Great Baltimore Fire occurred in February 1904 he was called to help rebuild the city, where, in that same year, he entered into partnership with Otto Gustav Simonson (1862–1922), establishing the firm of Simonson and Pietsch, which lasted until 1908 (dissolved on 11 February 1908 by mutual consent; see Baltimore Sun, Friday, 21 February 1908, p. 3); his principle works in Baltimore include Eastern High School, the Fish Market, Wholesale Produce Market, Retail Market and Maryland Institute Night School, the U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Building (now the Hampton Inn and Suites), the Lanahan Warehouse, Broadway Pier (the City Pier or “Recreation Pier,” 1715 Thames Street between Broadway and Ann Street, opened on 20 August 1914; built by the city at a cost of over $1 million as a commercial pier with community facilities, including a ballroom on the top floor; now the Sagamore Pendry Hotel), the Tin Decorating Company’s Plant, Fallsway Viaduct, Fallsway Fountain Monument, the adjoining parish house and tower of Zion Lutheran Church (cornerstone laid 24 November 1912), the Association of Commerce Building, Jackson Place School, the residence of Dr. Ernest Gotthard Marr (1887–1970), 5 Blythewood Road (construction completed January 1928), and his most famous work, the Saints Philip & James Catholic Church and University Parish, 2801 North Charles Street, a cruciform edifice of classic Greco-Roman and Byzantine design, constructed of Indiana limestone, completed in late 1929 and dedicated on 15 June 1930; works outside Baltimore include the Warden’s Residence of the Maryland House of Correction, Jessup; he became a citizen and resident of the State of Maryland on 27 October 1908, at which time he gave his address as “Mt. Royal Apts.”; a poet of sorts, he published a number of his works in local newspapers; fluent in the French language, he was an instructor in French to officers of the 316th regiment at Camp Meade, Maryland, 1917–1918; associate of the American Institute of Architects (elected 10 March 1903); member of Friends of Art, Baltimore; a democrat; a Protestant who, despite nagging of his Catholic wife, never converted to Catholicism; club memberships: University, Merchants, Jockey, Elkridge, and Baltimore (elected 4 April 1912); residence at 27 Wickford Road (later changed to 4327), Roland Park, purchased in 1913 (see Baltimore Sun, 1 April 1913, p. 4); his office was at 1210–11 American Building, Baltimore; on the morning of 1 January 1930 he committed suicide in his studio above the garage (which he himself designed) behind the Wickford Road house, some say because of depression, worry over ill health, and/or large loss of money during the stock market crash; last will and testament filed at Orphans’ Court of Baltimore City, 27 November 1929, registered by Edwin R. Downes, witnessed by Frank H. Zimmerman, William J. Casey, and F. S. Chasaway, bequeathing “all of my estate [estimated at $15,000, value in 2021 about $240,000] of every kind and description, and whatever the same may be, to my wife, Gertrude Zell Pietsch, her heirs, representatives, and assigns” (“on the 6th day of January 1930, came Gertrude Zell Pietsch and made oath in due form of law, that she does not know of any Will or Codicil of Theodore Wells Pietsch late of said city, deceased, other than the above instrument of writing, and that she found the same in Safe Deposit Box at the Safe Deposit & Trust Co., and that the said Theodore Wells Pietsch departed this life on the 1st day of January, 1930. Sworn to before the subscriber Edwin R. Downes, Register of Wills of Baltimore City,” No. 25, Case No. 449, File No. 10495); funeral services held on Friday, 3 January, at his home, 4327 Wickford Road, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Arthur Barksdale Kinsolving, rector of St. Paul’s Protestant Episcopal Church; active pallbearers Charles W. Hurst, William J. Casey, E. J. Dickey, Edward Belise, William H. Emory Jr., and Frank H. Zimmerman; honorary pallbearers Governor Richie, Stuart S. Janney, Arthur W. Machen Jr., Harry M. Benzinger, Pembroke M. Womble, R. E. Lee Taylor, Bayard Turnbull, and Dr. John Ruhrah; buried at New Cathedral Cemetery, 4300 Old Frederick Road, Baltimore, Sec. ZZ, Lot 33, Grave No. 2; disinterred 6 October 2021, remains cremated and reburied, 19 November 2021, in the Pietsch lot at Graceland Cemetery, Chicago, Sec. N, Lot 47, grave 21.

Married, at the home of her parents, 1022 North Calvert Street, Baltimore, on 7 November 1911, the Rev. J. F. Quirk of Georgetown College, Washington, presiding, to Gertrude Carroll Zell (“Gom” as she was later called by her daughters-in-law and grandchildren, a name given to her by granddaughter Joan Carroll Pietsch), “one of the most attractive girls in the younger set” (Baltimore American, Wednesday, 8 November 1911); Mrs. E. Bartlett Hayward was matron of honor; Miss Charlotte Smith, maid of honor; and Dr. John Ruhrah, best man; Gertrude was born 2 May 1888 in Baltimore, and died of a stroke (cerebral vascular hemorrhage resulting from cerebral vascular arteriosclerosis; chronic congestive heart failure contributing to death but not related to immediate cause; no autopsy) on 5 May 1968 in Pipersville, Pennsylvania; she moved out of the Wickford Road house in about 1934 (the house, containing 12 rooms, three baths, was sold in July 1936 for $18,000 to a Mr. Harold L. Denton, who sold it in turn in September 1942 to Bradbury P. Foss; Baltimore Sun, 5 July 1936, p. 30; 20 September 1942, p. 40) and moved first into an apartment in the Carlton building (3507 North Charles Street, Baltimore, across from the Johns Hopkins University campus), then to Lumberville, Pennsylvania, and finally to Cabin Run Farm (which she purchased for $8,300; deed recorded on 18 November 1941) in Pipersville (Bucks County), Pennsylvania, where she lived until her death, with her close friend and companion, Katharine Atkinson (“Aunt Kitty,” considered a member of the family, born 2 January 1900, suffered a debilitating stroke 4 December 1981, died 2 January 1991 after a decade in a nursing home; daughter of George W. Atkinson, born Baltimore, 16 August 1872, married 1898, died 20 May 1953 (Druid Ridge Cemetery), and Edith Tilghman, born November 1875, died 22 January 1935 (Loudon Park Cemetery); sister of Sara Elizabeth (“Bettie”) Atkinson, born 21 July 1905, died 18 February 1980, the latter, wife of Peter Michel Rouzitsky (married 11 November 1933, see The Baltimore Sun, 17 September 1933, p. 55), an economist and statistician, born Odessa, Ukraine, 29 January 1901, died October 1976, last residence Washington, D.C.); Gertrude, bequeathing everything to Katharine Atkinson, was buried on 8 May 1968 in the Zell lot (Sec. L, Lot 192, Grave No. 11), New Cathedral Cemetery, Baltimore (see Zell Family Genealogy).

Young Chicagoan’s Honors. T. W. Pietsch graduates in architecture from Ecole des Beaux Arts. Charles Francis Pietsch, secretary of the Illinois Staats Zeitung Company, received a cablegram from Paris yesterday announcing that his son Theodore W. Pietsch had passed the final examinations of the Ecole des Beaux Arts and had graduated with honor. It will be of interest to Chicagoans to know that Theodore Pietsch is the first Chicagoan who has ever achieved this honor, and is the third American who has ever succeeded in carrying away a diploma in architecture from this world renowned school of fine arts.

Mr. Pietsch commenced his studies in architecture in Boston at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he stayed for three years. He then returned to this city and accepted a position with Burnham & Root. His work with them was of such merit as to attract the attention of Mr. Root, who took a great interest in the young architect and favored him in many ways. Here Mr. Pietsch received the most careful attention and gained the experience which could only be had with association from such men of architectural genius as was John W. Root. Having gained much in practical experience during the three year he was associated with the firm, Mr. Pietsch decided to fit himself still more thoroughly for his life’s profession by pursuing his studies abroad. In the Fall of 1891 he left for Paris, intending to study at the Ecole des Beaux Arts. In his first trial of the entrance examinations he ranked forty-ninth, thirty only being admitted of 300 applicants. But as many Americans who have since become famous in their profession have failed at the first trial he decided to persevere. In the next examination in July, 1892, he ranked first out of 250 applicants, being the first American who had ever achieved the honor of entering the Beaux Arts rank one.

During the succeeding five years of his study at the Beaux Arts, Mr. Pietsch won numerous awards and medal at the several competitions and examinations given by the school, and on the merit of his thesis composition has finally been awarded his diploma with honorable mention. He is now about 29 years old and will return to this city in February to pursue his chosen profession, for which he has so well prepared himself. (The Chicago Chronicle, Sunday, 19 December 1897, p. 5.)

Engagement announced 31 March 1911.—An engagement of much interest to society, just announced, is that of Miss Gertrude Carroll Zell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Carroll Zell, of 1022 North Calvert street, to Mr. Theodore Wells Pietsch, of this city. Mr. Pietsch is the son of Mr. Charles F. Pietsch and is a well-known architect of Baltimore. Miss Zell is a popular member of the younger set in society. She is a handsome and charming girl (Baltimore Sun, Friday, 31 March 1911, p. 8).

A wedding of interest to Baltimore and Chicago society will take place tomorrow, when Miss Gertrude Carroll Zell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Carroll Zell, will be married to Mr. Theodore Pietsch, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pietsch, of Chicago. The ceremony will be performed at 6.30 o'clock at the home of the bride, 1022 Belvedere Terrace, by Rev. Father Quirk, of St. Ignatius' Church, and will be followed by a reception. Mrs. Bartlett Hayward will be matron of honor and will wear a gown of white satin with touches of gold. Miss Charlotte Smith will be maid of honor and will wear a gown of yellow satin. They will both carry bouquets of American Beauty roses. The bride will enter the drawing room with her father, by whom she will be given away. She will be met by the bridegroom, attended by his best man, Dr. John Ruhrah. She will wear a gown of white satin, trimmed with point lace, and a tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms, and will carry a bouquet of lilies of the valley and stephanotis. A great many beautiful presents have been received. After a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Pietsch will occupy an apartment at Earl Court. (The Evening Sun, 6 November 1911, p. 7)

Bride and Groom of Yesterday.—The wedding of Miss Gertrude Carroll Zell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Carroll Zell, to Mr. Theodore Well Pietsch of Baltimore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Pietsch of Chicago, took place at 6.30 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride, 1022 Belvidere Terrace. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John S. Quirk, of the Georgetown University, and was followed by a large reception. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a grows of ivory satin with a court train and trimmed with duchess lace. Her veil was of point lace and was fastened with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a circlet of diamonds, the gift of the bride groom. Mrs. E. Bartlett Hayward, the matron of honor, wore white satin veiled in chiffon embroidered in gold, and carried yellow chrysanthemums, while the bridesmaid, Miss Charlotte Smith, wore pale yellow satin trimmed with gold, and her flowers were white chrysanthemums.

The best man was Dr. John Ruhrah. The rooms were beautifully decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums, and an orchestra played during the evening. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Pietsch will occupy an apartment at Earl Court (Baltimore Sun, 8 November 1911, p. 8).

- 9. iii. Robert Brooke Pietsch, born Baltimore, 28 April 1923, died Paris, 27 October 2013; First marriage, 30 August 1947, to Elizabeth (Aunt Betsy) Osborne Hill of Rochester, New York, born 18 January 1922, died 1 December 1973. Second marriage, 8 October 1977, to Elise Murray, born 16 February 1924, died Boston, 13 October 2017 (Elise was previously .to an Englishman, Hubert Murray, with whom she had three sons, John, Michael, and Philippe: as of December 2001, John lives in Cumbria, England; Michael lives outside of London; Philippe, now Philippe Murray-Pietsch, is Robert Brooke's legally adopted son; Elise lived many years in England and had a British passport).

- 6. Walter Gray Pietsch, called "Dada" by his children and grandchildren, and for some unknown reason, called "Kenn" by his brother Theodore, born 27 January 1875 in Chicago, died there on 14 December 1938 after an illness of nine months (prostate cancer and pneumonia) at Alexian Brothers Hospital, aged 63 years, 10 months, 17 days; funeral services, 3 p.m., Friday, 16 December 1938, at Graceland Cemetery chapel; buried 16 December 1938 at Graceland Cemetery, Chicago (Sec. N, Lot 113, grave 10); attended various Chicago schools (graduated from the Chicago Manual Training School, commencement held at the First Methodist Church, 22 June 1892), then graduated from Cornell in 1896, with a thesis presented for the Degree of Bachelors of Letters entitled "Madame de Maintenon and the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes," Cornell University, 1896, 79 pp. (available on microfilm, Cornell University theses beginning 1871, reel 146, T1896-226); Alpha Delta Phi, track star at the half-mile run, played violin; elected to the membership of the Sphinx Head Society (the oldest senior honor society at Cornell University, which recognizes Cornell senior men and women who have demonstrated respectable strength of character on top of a dedication to leadership and service at Cornell University); was involved with various Chicago businesses, first in newspapers with Boyce's Blade & Ledger and the Chicago Chronicle, then advertising agencies; at the time of his death he was President of Gale & Pietsch, Inc., an advertising company with headquarters at 333 North Michigan Avenue; in 1906, he lived at 414 East Chicago Avenue; moved from Chicago to Evanston in early August 1908 (“Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gray Pietsch have taken a house in Evanston”; Chicago Daily Tribune, 2 August 1908, p. G5); from at least 1925 to the time of his death, he was living at 619 Dartmouth Place, Evanston, after having owned five homes, all in Evanston (1145 Maple Ave., 22 East Jackson Blvd., 1722 Ridge Ave., 1630 Ashland Ave., and 619 Dartmouth Place). Interested in theater and drama, he was an early associate of the famous Hull House Settlement in Chicago, more specifically, the Hull House Dramatic Association, which was founded in 1896 by Jane Addams and Ellen Gates Starr to promote fine arts in the Near West side neighborhood of Chicago; in 1897 he was named the Dramatic Association’s first director, and in April of that year, he made his directorial debut with the opening of “As You Like It”; wanting to improve the overall quality of Hull House theater productions, he persuaded Addams to let him establish a special group of Hull House players, selected on the basis of talent and artistic standards; he selected a star cast from the two hundred young people of both sexes who made up the eight to ten drama clubs that were part of the Settlement’s diverse drama groups; the success of his plays and the performances of the local amateur actors inspired Addams to raise funds for a permanent theater at Hull House; he resigned the directorship in 1900. Married, 19 June 1901, at St. Mark’s Episcopal Church, Evanston, the Rev. Dr. Little performing the ceremony, Amy Randolph Lake, daughter of Richard Conover Lake (born 20 July 1846, died 10 July 1919) and Mary Randolph (4 September 1849, died 14 September 1894), of Clearwater, Florida; Jessie Lake (1872-1937, married Wigmore), sister of the bride, was maid of honor; Margaret Randolph Lake (1881-1956, married Roger L. Foote), another sister, a bride’s maid; little Gertrude Lake (1891-1973, married Merrick), another sister, flower girl; Theodore W. Pietsch, the groom’s brother, best man; Richard Randolph Lake (born 1879, died in Jacksonville, Florida, 25 August 1932), a brother, an usher; the reception was held at the family residence, 1708 Ridge Avenue (Chicago Daily Tribune, 20 June 1901, p. 16; 23 June 1901, p. 46); Amy Randolph Lake was born 24 January 1874, Central City, Colorado, died by suicide, 17 September 1923, after a two-year illness, aged 49 years (she had been in and out of the hospital for “mental” problems; her husband had hired a nurse/companion to stay with her even in the hospital, but she somehow slipped out of the hospital, took a cab to somewhere on the lake front of Lake Michigan, got out and ran to the water—the cab driver was alarmed and followed her and saw her jump off the pier: Amy Lake Seehausen St. John to TWP III, personal communication, 12 May 2005); buried 19 September 1923 at Graceland Cemetery, Chicago (Sec. N, Lot 113, grave 8); three children, two sons and a daughter.

Death Claims Walter Pietsch, Agency Head: Chicago, Dec. 15.—The death of Walter Gray Pietsch, head of Gale Pietsch, Inc., this week removes from the ranks of national advertising a man whose activities in publishing and agency work covered more than a quarter of a century. Mr. Pietsch’s death yesterday followed an illness of nearly a year, during which time he had been kept from his desk. After graduating from Cornell University in 1898, Mr. Pietsch entered the advertising department of the Chicago Chronicle and later became assistant advertising manager of that paper. Later he was office manager, advertising manager and then general manager of the W. D. Boyce Company, a Chicago publisher. For several years he was an account executive with the Taylor Critchfield agency, handling such accounts as the White Company, motor cars and trucks and much of the publicity for Packard, Firestone and others. The well-known “White Roll Call,” in which users of White trucks are listed for public information, was an innovation conceived by him in 1912. Handled Famous Products: After leaving the Taylor-Critchfield organization, Mr. Pietsch went to Lord & Thomas as account executive, later serving as chief of the copy department. He then joined the E. H. Clarke Advertising Agency, handling such accounts as Weed Chain, Ed V. Price, Kirk Soap, Steger Pianos and other outstanding accounts. A few years later he became connected with the Chicago office of the Fred M. Randall Company, and there resumed an association with Albert L. Gale, formed during his days with Taylor-Critchfield. Upon the death of Mr. Randall eleven years ago, the Chicago business of the Detroit agency was taken over and Gale & Pietsch, Inc. was formed. The advertising accounts with which Mr. Pietsch was actively concerned during his career included many other products familiar to American buyers. In addition to the already named, this list includes such accounts as Marmon Warner Lenz, Diamond T trucks, Moline Plow, Stearn cars, Alfred Decker & Cohn, Chicago Surface Lines, National Board of Fire Underwriters, National Dairy Council and many others. Outside of business, Mr. Pietsch was a member of the University Club of Chicago, the Tavern Club, the Alpha Delta Phi Club of New York, and the Glen View Golf Club. His wife, the former Amy Lake of Evanston, died in 1923. A daughter and two sons survive, Mrs. Howard Seehausen of Evanston, Randolph Pietsch of Evanston, and Richard F. Pietsch of Wilmette. The latter took over his father’s responsibilities in the Gale & Pietsch agency when Mr. Pietsch was forced to give up active work, and will carry on with the organization retaining its present form (Advertising Age, 19 December 1938, page 25).

Woman Patient Flees Hospital; Found in Lake: Shortly after 6 o’clock last night Mrs. Amy L. Pietsch, a nerve patient, disappeared from the Presbyterian hospital. Four hours later members of the coast guard took her body from the lake near the foot of Ontario street. She was well dressed and wore three pieces of jewelry—one of which, a gold wrist watch, was engraved with the initials “A. L. P.” She was identified at Shute’s undertaking rooms, 743 North Clark street, by the nurse who attended her at the hospital. Mrs. Pietsch was the wife of Walter G. Pietsch of 1630 Ashland Avenue, Evanston. At the hospital it was said she had been despondent for some time.

Flees Hospital; Found in Lake, Services Tomorrow for Mrs. Amy Lake Pietsch: Four hours after her disappearance from the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago, where she had been a nerve patient, the body of Mrs. Amy Lake Pietsch, wife of Walter G. Pietsch, 1630 Ashland avenue, was taken from Lake Michigan by members of the coast guard near the foot of Ontario street in Chicago. Mrs. Pietsch, who was the daughter of the late Richard C. Lake, had been despondent because of ill-health extending over a period of several years. During the summer she was undergoing treatment for her health at Clifton Springs, New York. Mrs. Pietsch is survived by her husband, three children, Richard Francis, Mary Wells, and Walter Randolph, of Cornell university, who is now on his way home; three sisters, Mrs. Clinton Merrick, 1625 Ashland Avenue, Mrs. Roger L. Foote, 1048 Forest Avenue, and Mrs. F. Marion Wigmore, of Washington, D.C. There are two brothers, Randolph Lake of Chicago, and George Lake, now in Honolulu. Funeral services will be held from the Lake family residence, 1708 Ridge Avenue, tomorrow afternoon at two o’clock.

December 2000; married 1932; worked in the Pietsch house in Roland Park from 1926–1932; in April 1997 still living at 4417 Leeds Avenue, Arbutus, Baltimore; her husband George Johann Koessler, born Unterallgau, Germany, 27 February 1900, died in his sleep of heart failure, Arbutus, Baltimore, 27 September 1990; a native of Bavaria, he served in the German army during World War I, immigrated to Baltimore in 1927; became a cabinet-maker, employed by John C. Knipp & Sons, a millwork and woodworking company, for nearly 50 years, retiring about 1980; he worked at the White House during its reconstruction in the late 1940s and early 1950s; they had a daughter, Elizabeth (“Betty”) Margaret Koessler, born 5 April 1935, died 23 August 1992, married Rettberg, lived in Ponte Vedra Beach, Florida, with three children).

An automobile stylist and industrial designer, he graduated in 1926, age 13, from the Lower School of the Gilman County School for Boys (private, nondenominational), Roland Park, Baltimore (see The Cynosure, the Yearbook for 1926, p.111; archive.org/stream/cynosure09gilm#page/n7/mode/2up); attended the Stuyvesant School for boys in Warrenton, Virginia (established in 1912, the school had an enrollment of about sixty boys each year and offered a wide range of pre-college classes in a non-military environment; it closed in 1954; see A Handbook of Private Schools for American Boys and Girls, An Annual Survey, 1922); later, from 1930–1933, the Maryland Institute, Baltimore, where he majored in design and mechanical drawing. In 1934, he left Baltimore for Detroit where he began his career as a designer for the Chrysler Corporation, serving initially as an apprentice and eventually working up to duties equivalent to those of a “senior designer”; while employed at Chrysler, he won the Automotive Free Lance Industrial Design Award each year from 1934–1940; in 1940 he left Chrysler for the position of Senior Designer at the Hudson Motor Car Company, where he worked primarily at the drawing board making “quick-idea” sketches, color renderings in a variety of media (including catalog-quality air-brush work), accurate scale and full-size layouts, and rough sketching in three-dimensional clay models; at Hudson Motor he was also assigned to war work that consisted of making accurate perspective drawings of airplane assemblies and subassemblies from blueprints, and air-brush retouching of photographs (that were later used in an instruction manual prepared for the armed services) of mechanical parts of an anti-aircraft gun. From 1944–1947 he was Senior Designer for Briggs Manufacturing Company; 1947–1950, Assistant Head of Ford Studio, Ford Motor Car Company; 1950–1952, Senior Designer, Chrysler Exterior Studio, Chrysler Corporation; and 1952–1955, Senior Designer, Raymond Loewy Associates, assigned to the Studebaker Account, designing automobile and truck interiors and exteriors. In 1955 he moved with his family to South Bend, Indiana, where they lived at 1222 White Oak Drive and he became Head of the Studebaker President Exterior Studio, Studebaker Packard Corporation; from 1956–1958, he was Assistant Head Truck Exterior Studio at Studebaker, in charge of two designers and a clay modeler, assigning and supervising their work in the absence of the studio head, and acting as a liaison between the styling and engineering departments. In 1958 he became Account Manager for Dave Chapman, Incorporated, an industrial design firm located in Chicago; commuting weekly between South Bend and Chicago, he was responsible for the design account for a department of Montgomery Ward and Company; the account included the design of water heaters, water softeners, water pumps, furnaces, air-conditioners, incinerators, and ventilating fans; he also did considerable work on the design of boats, outboard motors, and radios. In 1959 he became Manager of Exterior Styling at the Studebaker Packard Corporation (see Theodore W. Pietsch II (1912–1993) and the Development of Automobile Design in the Golden Age, 2010, Velocity Press Solutions, Lynn, Massachusetts, 79 pp.). Married, 24 June 1938, in Detroit, Michigan, Louise Mary Shamlian, born 1 December 1914 in Watertown, Massachusetts, died 15 January 1987, in Seal Beach, California; first residence, a two-room attic apartment in the house of Mrs. Howard, 1229 Tyler Street, Highland Park, Michigan; later built a house (total cost $6,000) at 2219 Linwood Avenue, Royal Oak, Michigan, and moved in by Easter 1942; three children (see Shamlian Family Genealogy). At his death, his ashes were divided: a portion was buried next to his wife at Odd Fellows Cemetery (also known as I.O.O.F. Cemetery), Monroe, Washington; the remaining portion was buried next to his father at New Cathedral Cemetery, Baltimore (Section ZZ, Lot 33, grave 2), but subsequently disinterred (along with the remains of his father) and reburied in the old Pietsch Family lot at Graceland Cemetery, Chicago, Sec. N, Lot 47, grave 21.
