

Some Japanese words used in the Seattle Japanese Garden

Shoseian

“Arbor of the Murmuring Pines” name of our teahouse

Machiai

waiting area

Tatami

floor mat

Roji

tea garden, “dewy ground”

Chado

the way of tea

Chanoyu

tea ceremony

Tsukubai

teahouse water basin and stones

Azumaya

Suhamma

stone peninsula

Chozubachi

water basin

Ishigame

stone tortoise

Omokage

Kasuga

-

Misaki-gata

cape lantern

Yukimi-doro

snow-viewing lantern

Maruashimoto

circular light for foot-steps

Kakuashimoto

square light for foot-steps

Oribe

Taihei

Kobe lantern, “calm peace”

Eitoku-ji

Sekimori - ishi

Guard stone

Ishi no tou

stone pagoda

Tobi-ishi

stepping stones

Tsukimi-dai

moon viewing platform

Yatsuhashi

zig-zag bridge

Dobashi

earthen bridge

Hibaku-jumoku

“tree that survived the atom bomb”

Aka matsu

red pine

Fuji

wisteria

Kakitsubata

iris

Ume

Plum

Kiri

Paulownia, Empress Tree

Sakuteiki

Shin So Gyo

formal – informal - mixed

ma

Mie-gakure

hide and reveal

Wabi - Sabi

Shakkei

borrowed scenery

Heian

Japanese period 794 - 1185

Muromachi

- Japanese period 1333 - 1568

Momoyama

- Japanese period 1568-1600

Daimyo

large landowners / feudal lords

Crown Princess Michiko

Juki Iida

Our garden designer, supervised construction

Kiyoshi Inoshita

Master Japanese garden designer

Richard Yamasaki

Seattle gardener who helped build garden and donated this Yamasaki pine

James Fukuda

Translator during garden construction; Empress tree in his honor

Tateuchi

Family who donated money for this meeting room

arigatou gozaimashita

Thank you